LAWRENCE FACES GRAVE SITUATION.

Howling Mob of Strikers Try to Keep Men from Mills.

Several Persons Seriously Injured During Riotous Outbreak.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Jan. 29.—The most serious situation the city of Lawrence has faced since the strike of some 20,000 textile workers was inaugurated more than two weeks ago was experienced today, when a howling mob of nearly 1,000 persons held up and damaged many electric cars and intimidated the passengers to such an extent that they fled to places of safety.

The rioters were most active on Essex street and Broadway. Determined to prevent operatives from entering the gates of the dozen mills, the strikers stopped all electric cars on these streets for half an hour, smashed the car windows, compelled the passengers to leave and in many instances assaulted the workers as they stepped to the street. Many persons were injured, some severely, by flying pieces of snow, sticks, stones and other missiles. When the riot was the most serious the full police force was practically unable to restore order, but in the mill district the militia had the situation well in hand. Squads of soldiers, ready for action, stood at the various short streets and were successful in keeping the rioters in the business section of the city.

The most serious attempts to damage mill property were made at the Arlington mills, the Everett mills and at the corner of Mill and Essex streets. At these places the militia took so determined a stand that the operatives were unable to pass. As a result of the rioting eight persons were arrested here and seven were taken into custody, in Methuen. In Methuen street cars were held up and many panes of glass were broken. No one was seriously hurt. Both in this city and in Methuen the persons arrested were given hearings. Sentences had not been pronounced at noon.

The noon hour was generally quiet. The strikers, however, were put in large numbers and their special prey were children going to the mills with dinners for their parents. In a number of cases the strikers took the dinner baskets away from the children and trampled the food under foot. Luigi Iconia stopped a little girl with a basket on her arm, in front of the police station and tried to get the food away from the child. A policeman saw the act and arrested Iconia.

The Arlington mill closed this noon, and it was announced no further attempt would be made to run the mill until conditions improved. The operatives were notified not to return until sent for. Following the disturbance Mayor Scanlon, Colonel Swettser, Alderman C. F. Lynch and Captain John L. Sullivan held a conference at the armory. The meeting was concluded after an hour's session and the only statement issued was that the general situation was discussed. Reports that martial law would be declared could not be confirmed, and in some instances were denied.

Another conference was held at the Bay State building, where representatives of some of the mills conferred with the city officials. The conference was still in session at 1 p. m., and no statement had been issued. The attempt of the strikers by resorting to methods of rioting to keep the operatives from entering the mills were partly successful, as it was estimated the number of persons who entered the mills was smaller than on any day last week. Hundreds of operatives desiring to go back to work were intimidated by the rioters' actions and returned home. Adjutant General Pearson conferred with the city and military officials today. Following the conference the adjutant general said that if the request should be made by the city he would inform Governor Foss of the situation and ask that additional troops be sent here. He added that the militia lines would be extended to all parts of the city in an attempt to preserve order. At the present time the militia guards the mill district only. Further trouble is feared tonight.

Strike Leader Joseph J. Ettor delivered an impassioned speech at a meeting of the strikers' committee today. He declared the strike had just started and mingled his remarks with veiled threats as to what might happen. "They say that I have changed my policy," said Ettor, "but the newspapers or the mayor or 'Billy' Wood cannot direct my policy. They may put the city under martial law, but I do not care what kind of law they declare and even if they put the gallows on the streets we are going to win in this fight.

"Now as regards this morning. There was more violence on the other side than ours. Every 'scab' carried a revolver and every soldier on the other side was armed with a club or bayonet. No matter whether it is under the mantle of the law it is to be equally condemned as the rioting under the mantle of the mob.

"How do we know that it is the strikers or the paid agents or the officials who have gone among strikers and caused just the same kind of damage as this morning, but remember you don't have to throw stones. This town is going to be sorry in a couple of days. Probably there won't be any cars to throw stones at. Now I am not giving any plans away," said Ettor, turning to the newspaper men.

Hooting and yelling, the participants in the trouble, many of them being women who ever employed in the mills up to the beginning of the strike, marched through several streets and until interrupted by the militia companies caused considerable trouble. Many of the marchers carried flags and had tin pans, cowbells and other articles to make noise, and were led by a band.

Essex street was the scene of most of the rioting, the body of strikers stopping the progress of all cars going in the direction of the mills. In cases where the motormen refused to halt their cars the trolleys were yanked off and many window panes were smashed by large pieces of ice and frozen snow. Entering the cars

IMPERIAL FORCES CRUSHED.

Those at Kuh Chen Defeated by Chinese Revolutionists.

LONDON Jan. 29.—The Chinese revolutionists have crushingly defeated the imperial force commanded by General Chang Hsun at Kuh Chen, in the province of Anhwei, according to a news agency despatch received here today from Tien Tsin.

PATROLS UNDER HEAVY FIRE.

The Kurds and Russians in Northern Provinces of Persia Fighting.

ST. PETERSBURG, Jan. 29.—A number of skirmishes between the Kurds and the Russians occupying the northern provinces of Persia are reported in a despatch received here from Khoi, in the Persian province of Azerbaijan, 65 miles to the northwest of Tabriz. The Russian patrols on the 60-mile stretch of road between Urumiah and Dilman have been fired at repeatedly during the past few days. Several Kurds have been killed by the Russians. There have been several armed parties of Kurds and Armenians observed in the neighborhood of Urumiah, which is occupied by the Turks.

MOTOR LAUNCH CAPTURED.

Italian Cruiser Piemonte Seizes Craft Flying the British Flag.

HODEIDA, Red Sea, Jan. 29.—Italian cruiser Piemonte belonging to the squadron of cruisers searching the coastso fthe Red sea for vessels carrying contraband to the Turkish troops stationed in Arabia, came to anchor off Ras Kethib, about nine miles from this city, yesterday. She lowered a boat flying the white flag, which entered the bay and captured a motor launch belonging to Thornycroft & Co., which was flying the British flag.

Thornycroft & Co., have supplied a considerable number of these launches to the Turkish government for use in the revenue service and this small craft was about to be handed over for the same purpose.

THE NANTUCKET LEAVES PORT.

Meals of Pork and Eels Must be Had Unless Weather Moderates.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Jan. 29.—Steamer Nantucket, which was driven back into the harbor yesterday by the ice fields outside of Brant Point, managed to leave this forenoon in the teeth of a stiff northeast snowstorm. As some open water was reported at dark last night in the direction of the Cross Rip lightship, it was believed the little steamer would be able to reach Woods Hole some time this afternoon.

There is a fair supply of fresh meat on the island, but unless the weather moderates in the next ten days, the regular winter staple food of fresh pork and eels may appear at all three meals.

LAWS TO BE ENFORCED.

Connecticut Organizations to See Everything is Closed Sundays.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Jan. 29.—With the object of rendering the present Sunday observance laws so obnoxious to the people of the state that the next general assembly will be asked to repeal them, the Gaelic Association of Athletic Clubs of Connecticut, in convention here, has endorsed the movement looking to a rigid enforcement of the laws. Organizations are to be formed in every city and town to see that Sunday everything is closed tight and that none of the so-called blue laws are violated.

A State Champ Clark League Organized by Democrats.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29.—Champ Clark was given his first boom in this state for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency by the organization today of a state Champ Clark League.

ANTI-TAFT HEADQUARTERS.

Georgia Republicans Opposed to Renomination of President.

ATLANTA, Ga., Jan. 29.—Opposition among Georgia Republicans to the renomination of President Taft has resulted in the opening of anti-Taft headquarters here, and it is stated an effort will be made to prevent a Taft instructed delegation being sent from this state to the national convention. February 14 has been fixed by the Republican state committee as the date for the state convention which will nominate delegates to the Chicago convention, and its action has led to a protest from Lewis G. Watts, secretary of the Fulton county executive committee, who wired the President last night that under Georgia's registration law, the unprecendentedly early call "disqualifies" fully four fifths of Georgia's Republican voters from representation in this convention. He asked whether it meets the President's approval.

EARL DUNRAVEN ON HOME RULE

Catholics in Ireland Will Not Persecute Protestants if Accepted.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—Earl Dunraven has contributed an interesting interview in regard to the present great agitation in the Irish province of Ulster, in which he diagnoses the agitation as a mental disease from which Ulster has been suffering for generations. The earl says that the people of Ulster have for a long time been accustomed to complete ascendency and have come to consider themselves as superior to the majority of Irishmen intellectually, socially and in every other resect. They regard themselves as belonging to a nobler species of creation and what they really dread is being put upon a level with other Irishmen. There is no reason to suppose, says Earl Dunraven, that the Catholic majority in Ireland will persecute the Protestant minority should home rule be introduced. Intolerance has been always shown by the other side.

GENERAL DENIAL BY DEFENDANTS.

Disclaim Intent to Restrain Steel Trade Business.

Land and Mining Companies Answer Government's Allegations.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 29.—Kellogg and Emery, counsel for the Minnesota group of land and iron mining companies named as party defendants in the suit in the United States circuit court here by the government for the dissolution of the United States Steel Corporation, filed their answers today to the government's allegations. There are three distinct answers, one by the West Missabe Land Company, limited, and 17 other land and iron mining companies; the second by J. H. Gruber, individually, and the third by Louis W. Hill, James N. Hill, Walter J. Hill and Edward T. Nicholas as trustees.

The answers are a general denial, so far as these defendants are concerned, of the allegations of the government of a plan on the part of the corporation and the other defendants to conspire to restrict competition in the steel and iron business. Gruber and the other four individuals are charged with being trustees in a lease from the West Missabe Land Company, limited and other defendants of ore land to the great Western Mining Company, the royalty upon the ore to be paid by the Great Western Company, the latter being guaranteed by the United States Steel Corporation.

In his answer Gruber admits having been named as a trustee but denies having joined in the lease. The other four individuals admit being trustees and having joined in the lease as such, but deny that they were a party to the creation of any monopoly in iron or steel products or in the restriction of the output of ore.

The West Missabe Land Company and the other company defendants admit the leases, but say they were made in good faith for the benefit of the stockholders, without any purpose of restricting trade or creating a monopoly. They also deny having at any time combined or conspired in restraint of trade among the several states or with foreign nations, within the meaning of section 1 of the anti-trust act.

The 17 companies which filed their answers were the Wright, Davis Wells and Stone land companies; the Wabigon, Minosin, Nobowa, Wrona and Minawab iron companies, and the Leonard, Arthur, Fillmore, Harrison, Jackson Polk, Tyler and Van Buren iron mining companies.

TAFT IN OHIO.

Striking Speech Expected from the President at Tippecanoe Banquet.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Jan. 29.—Invading a hot bed of national politics President Taft crossed the line into Ohio early today. He was due to arrive here at 11:20 o'clock, this being his first scheduled stop on a tour of the state, which will consume three days. In addition to Cleveland, Columbus and Akron are promised visits, Mr. Taft spending tomorrow and part of Wednesday in the former and Wednesday afternoon and evening in the latter city. After being met at the Euclid avenue station by a committee it was planned that the President should be escorted to his hotel, whence he later was to go to the Chamber of Commerce for an address to its members and to be the guest at a private luncheon given by President Charles E. Adams.

The program thereafter included a conference of nearly two hours between the President and former Governor Myron T. Herrick, a special reception to old soldiers, and talk to them and to Tippecanoe Club members, this being the only function open to the general public; an address to students of the Cleveland Law School, the Tippecanoe Club banquet, with an attendance of more than 600 expected, and the President as the last speaker, thence an 11 o'clock trip to a dinner by Hungarians and another speech, the day to be concluded with the drive to the Presidential car and departure at 2:40 o'clock in the morning for Columbus.

Those watching national politics anticipate a striking speech from the President at the Tippecanoe banquet. In its earlier stages much of the progressive Republican propaganda emanated from Cleveland, and the desire to observe the President's treatment of "insurgency" in his native state is general.

NEW YORK LETTER.

Movement Inaugurated for Creation of the State of Manhattan.

Wall Street's Unpopularity—Many Political Rumors—Women Lawyers Successful.

[Correspondence of The News.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—If the movement set on foot here this week is carried through a new star will be added to the national flag within the next year. The proposal does not look to the admission of Alaska to the Union as might be supposed, but to the creation of the state of Manhattan with boundaries practically the same as those of Greater New York, except that the whole of Long Island would be included instead of only a part as at present. The plan is being pushed in all seriousness and a bill for accomplishing this purpose has been introduced in the state legislature. Before the new state can become an actuality the proposal for its creation must be voted upon by the people of the city and those of the state and the city section, if favorable, would have to be ratified by the President and Congress. While there seems little doubt that the citizens of the metropolitan district would vote for a division from the rest of the state, it is argued if the residents of "up-state" would consent since the state derives two-thirds or more of its revenues from the taxes contributed by the city. It is pointed out by those behind the new movement that the state of Manhattan would be the richest in the country and that only two others would have a larger population. The area of running the city is at present and will soon pass the mark which, of course, is the basis of the governmental expenses of the state. The new commonwealth would make a good showing in other respects than those of wealth and population, too, for its annual output of manufactures would be nearly $1,- and its commerce would amount to nearly $2,000,000,000, or more than half that of the whole nation. Incidentally, Tammany Hall is in favor of the new plan as most of its troubles as a political organization came from districts originating in other parts of the state.

The measure of Wall Street's unpopularity with the rest of the United States was pretty well indicated here this week by the approval which the report of the Monetary Commission, looking for the re-construction of the country's banking and currency system, has received from all parts of the country. The plan has been severely criticised here on the ground that it discriminates against this city by giving it a representation in the directorate of the proposed national reserve association, which is to supervise the banking affairs of the nation, of only one third what it is entitled to on its proportion of the national bank resources. The very fact, however, that the new plan will curb the financial power of Wall Street apparently is the feature that has contributed largely to securing the enthusiastic approval of the rest of the country for the proposed measure.

According to the statement made by Frank V. Farwell of Chicago, president of the National Citizens' League which is conducting a campaign for banking reform, the national reserve association plan is receiving the general support and approval of business men throughout the country. He justifies the discrimination against New York in claiming that the commission, in giving the preponderance of authority to the West and South, has merely favored the portions of the country most in need of credit facilities at the expense of the section already well supplied in this respect. Thirty-four states have joined in the movement for the adoption of the national reserve plan, according to Mr. Farwell.

With Oyster Bay, the home of Col. Roosevelt, on one side and Washington on the other, and as the headquarters of the booms of several presidential aspirants, New York this week has become more than ever a centre of all sorts of political stories and rumors. Its personal interest is made more keen not only because of Roosevelt, the great unknown quantity in the coming Presidential race, is practically a resident of this city, but also because Charles D. Hilles, Mr. Taft's chief adviser, who has lately had a number of this with the Postmaster General which make the cabin- look too small to keep them both, is a well known worker here for many years. In the Hilles-Hitchcock controversy the sympathies of this city are with Mr. Hilles, as a native son. Other factors, too, detract from the support of Mr. Hitchcock. His proposal that the government ownership of telegraph lines finds little favor here, where it is regarded as the opening wedge for government ownership of public service facilities. It is believed here very bitterly opposed to Mr. Hitchcock's plan for the re-adjustment for railway mail pay, since they do not hesitate to state that if it were carried to all the business of the lines it would force them at once into bankruptcy. They assert that the figures by which the Postmaster General seeks to sustain his claim that he is being about further great reductions in the cost of mail transportation are distorted and his conclusions unwarranted.

The matter which has caused most speculation here, however, is that from Taft to the effect that the President would shortly go abroad for several months. A most significant report since such action on his part would leave his friends free to carry out such plans as they might desire. Altogether with the convention five months away, New York politics is a bit dizzy, and if rumors are to fly at the present rate the politicians will be about ready for a strait-jacket by the end of June.

With the admission of three women to the New York bar this week, the state has now passed the half hundred mark of Portias following the profession of law here thus putting it considerably ahead of any other city in the country in this respect. Small as the number of female lawyers, or lawyeresses, may seem, it is really surprising that it is as large as it is. Investigation shows that they find it extremely difficult to get started, and the way through their careers have been somewhat more difficult time of it than the male lawyers, who in this city at least seem to be the more lucky of the species, notwithstanding Rudyard Kipling's assertion. Just why this is the case has not been very definitely determined, although a number of reasons are suggested. The female lawyer is still looked upon as a novelty and as a result, perhaps not as reliable as her more entrenched professional brethren. Then, too, it is pointed out by many possible female clients strangely enough will not place confidence in a woman lawyer, being much stranger in this attitude than possible male clients. However, a number of women are making a good living at this profession, one of the most notable cases being that of a wife who is associated with her husband as equal partner.

One little-known feature of the great Equitable fire was the destruction of the once famous "whispering gallery" which more than a decade ago was the bane of politicians, and which probably had more to do with the making of political history than any one man knows. As was well known when Henry B. Hyde erected the building, which at that time was one of the sights of the city, he incorporated in it a private suite of rooms for himself which included a great dining room of novel design. According to the story which was always believed at Albany, many a member of the legislature visited that dining room only to discover later that a stenographic record of his suggestions, proposals and veiled threats as to insurance legislation was in existence. The explanation, which finally came to be accepted, was that artful curves in the panelling of the private dining room carried the most intimate conversations over coffee and cigars far away to a niche where sat the stenographer who recorded them.

IN MAYGAR LAND.

[Rev. Francis E. Clark, in Christian Herald.]

The Magyars, or Hungarians, are distinct from all the other peoples of Europe, the Finns alone excepted. Their ancestors many centuries ago, swept down from the plateaus of the Ural mountains upon the rich prairies of Hungary, and, by the very force of their inherent character, as well as by their valor at arms, overcame or assimilated the former barbaric inhabitants, and ever since, amid the vicissitudes of almost constant wars and even frequent defeats by many enemies, have maintained their individuality, and, for the most part, their undisputed supremacy, in southeastern Europe.

In race and language they are allied to the Turks on one side and to the Finns, another branch of the same family tree, on the other. Yet, though related to the Turks, they were the most consistent and successful enemies of Mohammedanism in all Europe. In fact Hungary, for centuries was the buffer state between Christian Europe and Mohammedan Asia, and many a hard-fought war did her people wage, almost single-handed, to repel the tide of Islamism, which often threatened to submerge all Europe.

PERSONALS.

....Dr. Charles W. Eliot, president of Harvard University, has so far recovered from his recent surgical operation that he has been out-of-doors and walked half a mile. As a member of his family expresses it, he is now "out of the woods."

....Two children, 60 grandchildren, 25 great-grandchildren and 12 great-great-grandchildren, 99 descendants in all, were left by Mrs. Albin, who died last week in Brooklyn, in her ninety-sixth year. Mrs. Albin is survived by a sister, 98 years old, and two brothers, 87 and 80 years old.

....The first Hindu scholarships in an American college have been provided for at the University of California by Sirdar Jawala Dingh, a wealthy Hindu farmer. Students, both men and women, will be brought from India on condition that they return to their native country on graduation.

....Edward Tuck, an American resident of Paris who has been appointed by President Fallieres, upon the nomination of Premier Raymond Poincaire, officer of the Legion of Honor, has for the past 20 years been foremost in works of charity in Paris. As an art collector, particularly of Napoleonic relics, he has rendered great service to the history of that period and has never missed an opportunity to strengthen the friendly feelings between Americans and Frenchmen. The honor now conferred upon him has caused great satisfaction.

....The report of the executors of the estate of Robert Hoe shows that they charged themselves with $7,985,- as the value of the estate and credited themselves with $890,775 for funeral and administration expenses. They charged $60,000 for executors' commissions and paid to creditors $329,784. Among the debts due the estate was one of $3,625,400 from the corporation of R. Hoe & Co. and $2,424,300 from Charles W. Carpenter, the surviving partner of the firm, for the proceeds of the sale of Mr. Hoe's interest in the business.

....Secretary of the Interior Fisher and Postmaster General Hitchcock, the only two members of President Taft's cabinet who have not visited the Panama canal have been ordered by the President, it is unofficially learned, to make a tour of inspection and will leave probably about the middle of February. On account of the numerous questions which arise in cabinet meeting discussions dealing with the changed commercial relations the opening of the Panama canal will bring about, the President is desirous of having every member familiar with conditions on the Isthmus.

THE FAIRY LANE.

[Emma A. Lente, in Epworth Herald.]

There is a Fairy Lane that leads unto a Pleasant Land;
And when the Stroller comes around with bag of magic sand
That closes children's eyes unto the daytime scenes and toys—
Then they go down the Fairy Lane without the slightest noise.

And all the night they wander in the Pleasant Land of Dreams,
And there they meet with Fairy Folk,
and sail on silvery streams;
Such wondrous toys they play with there, such fruits and sweets they eat,—
No wonder that they love to go these joyous things to meet.

So, when the sun has slipped away and birds have sought the nest,
And mothers say: "Now, little ones,

THE DEVELOPMENT OF CHICAGO'S LAKE FRONT.

[Popular Mechanics Magazine.]

A long stride toward the realization of the "Chicago Beautiful" plan was made just before the close of the past year when, through the co-operation of the city, the South Park Commission, the Chicago Plan Commission and the Illinois Central Railroad, the people of Chicago regained control of the lake front. The vexing problem of the location of the Field Museum of Natural History was also solved.

The plan calls for the extending out into the lake of the present shore line by filling, and the making of a narrow island or strip of land about seven or eight miles long, paralleling the shore line from Grant Park to Jackson Park, about 400 feet out in the lake. Between the extended shore line and this outer strip of parks will be a lagoon, approximately 400 feet wide, providing a calm, comparatively safe waterway for canoeing, motor-boating and rowing. Channels, giving access from the lagoon to the lake, will be provided. At intervals, viaducts will connect the island parks and the shore, two great pleasure piers, extending half a mile out into the lake, will be constructed, and a boulevard, connecting Grant and Jackson Parks, will be built along the lake side of the outer strip of land. Bathing beaches will be constructed at various points, and the island parks will be real playgrounds for all Chicago, where base ball, tennis and all manner of outdoor sports may be indulged in. All this will be part of a chain of parks and boulevards which will extend 20 miles along the shores of Lake Michigan.

AUTOMOBILISTS CROSS LAKE ERIE.

An automobile trip across ice-covered Lake Erie and return was completed at Put-in-Bay Friday, having been made in a 3,300 pound machine. Between Leamington and Pelee Island the party encountered a dangerous crack, which was bridged with planks taken along for the purpose.

HALF FARES FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN.

A year ago in the legislature a bill was introduced which provided for special rates on railroads for school children, not exceeding one half the regular fare. It received considerable support by school committees of various cities and towns but failed of passage in common with many other measures. A similar bill has been presented this year by the same member and is expected again to receive the favorable endorsement of many connected with educational work or interested in a general way in the schools and those who attend them. Such legislation is by no means unusual, but this state has never required the railroads to do much which they have not desired to do and provisions of this sort have been practically ignored. Every year there is a growing demand for laws which will benefit the people rather than the corporations and there is little question that sooner or later a bill of this sort will be adopted in this state.

There is no doubt that it is a hardship in many families in the state to pay so much money regularly for car fare for children as is required by a full rate twice a day during the school year and that a reduction by one half would be a great boon. Public education becomes a burden which can scarcely be borne by some when it entails charges for car fares which amount to a large sum in the course of a year and it would be only part of the general plan to lessen this expense to a minimum. That the railroads should help by reducing their rates to school children who travel regularly has been accepted in many places as not asking too much from these corporations and the roads have not apparently lost enough money seriously to cripple them in the operation of their systems. This measure may receive more favorable consideration this year than it did last year, for its passage would be of great benefit to a large number of people.

A GOOD LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM.

If the Republicans, in the majority in the legislature, carry out the program announced by their leaders they will do more really important business than has been accomplished at a single session for many years. They have asserted their intention of passing the tax bill, the employers' liability act and a measure creating a public service commission. These constitute an amount of legislation of moment to the state such as rarely comes before the assembly at one sitting, and to adopt it all will put the Republican party on record as making an achievement exceeding almost anything it has ever done in a single year through the legislature. This intention if carried out will entitle the majority to much praise, but at the same time it is apparent that there would not now be so much legislation of importance to act upon at one time if that party through its majority in the General Assembly had done some of this work at previous sessions.

Though the opportunity to make a record of such a creditable character at this time is due to the fact that some of this work has been neglected at other sessions, it is a cause for satisfaction that there is a prospect of the early passage of these three measures. The adoption of the tax bill indeed already seems assured, for at the recent hearing there was hardly any opposition except as to slight details in the framing of the law, and the way therefore seems quite open to early and favorable action on the bill which has been so long in preparation. The other two measures the passage of which is promised have not yet come from committees, but there is little question that it will not be a difficult task to frame them in such a manner that they can be adopted without much friction or opposition. There would seem to be no real difficulty, therefore, in carrying out the purpose announced regarding this important legislation.

A PIECE OF DEMOCRATIC CLAPTRAP.

The House of Representatives last week inserted in a bill a characteristic piece of Democratic, and especially of Bryanic, claptrap. It was a provision that in the case of all judicial appointments the President should make public all the recommendations of the persons nominated by him.

This isn't any of the business of the House, as the constitution provides that the President and the Senate shall make the appointments. While the debate was going on a Democratic member denounced this provision as unconstitutional and it is highly unlikely that the Senate will pay any attention to the action of the House, which is really an invasion of the prerogatives of the Senate as well as those of the President. If the Senate should agree to this amendment no President would so far compromise his prerogative as to pay any attention to it. The President has the right to make a nomination, and cannot be required to disclose all the facts which operated on his mind to influence his selection.

Bryan has been demanding this for a long time; it is a part of this attacks on the judiciary. He assumes that the bench is full of men who were appointed at the instance of the big corporations, of what he calls the Money Powor, and he wishes the fact disclosed by the publication of all endorsements. The big corporations and the great financiers have occasion to employ lawyers, and they have the best there are. Most of the eminent lawyers therefore have had some professional relations with Bryan's bete noir. Beyond this there is no foundation for his aspersion of the bench.

Besides, of what use would it be to publish the written endorsements of judges when there is no way of making a transcript of the President's mental operations, including his own estimates of judges, for transmission to Congress, nor is it practicable to publish the verbal communications made to the President regarding persons whose appointment he is considering.

EFFECT OF BOYCOTTING ON FOOD PRICES.

Two or three years ago, when a good deal was said about the high prices of meats, a boycott movement was started. The purpose was to bring about a general cessation of meat eating for 30 days, and while nothing universal was accomplished there was probably a large amount of economizing on meat for a little while, and a sharp decline in prices. We are accustomed to eat a good deal of meat, and in the slang of the day we "have the price," even if we growl about paying it, and the probability is that the amateur vegetarianism was far from universal and did not strike very deep.

Recently butter has gone up to phenomenal prices and an organized boycott of it was undertaken. A prompt response was a decline of three cents a pound in Elgin and two cents a pound in New York. But it may be doubted whether the boycott can be made extensive enough to have any great or lasting effect.

Of course the boycott is effective in proportion as it is applied. Prices are high because producers and dealers can exact them; because consumers will pay them rather than go without. If it should occur to consumers at any time that they would rather go without than pay the high prices, these will come down. Whatever stock is on hand will be sold off at whatever can be had for it, and if consumers will not go above low prices these are all it will bring.

Of course another problem would be raised. The producers might conclude that the prices they were receiving were not worth while and go to producing something else. The dairymen might let their herds decrease, butter might become scarce and the consumers might begin to bid against each other for the small supply in the market. In that case we should see the price climbing again under the combined influence of a reduced supply and a constant or increased demand. The thing which is pretty certain is that the producer or dealer will exact all the consumer is able and willing to pay, and the high cost of living is due to the more liberal spending of money rather than to any other one thing. Most consumers earn more than they did 30 years ago and the producers get it away from them.

Police Commissioner Rhinelander presents to Mayor Gaynor some startling statistics as to how justice is not administered in New York. He gives figures to show that, while the city arrests 84 per cent of its murderers, 80 per cent of these escape sentence. Six hundred and eleven persons convicted of felonies last year were freed by suspended sentences, and 11,370 convicted of misdemeanors were set free by the courts. An astonishing record.

The supporters of Speaker Champ Clark and former Governor Folk in Missouri refuse to harmonize on the basis of a divided delegation and the battle is on between the two candidates for the Democratic nomination for the Presidency. Each will go into the state convention with as many delegates as he can secure and the one who has the most will be Missouri's "favorite son" in the national convention.

The Democrats in the House of Representatives are rushing through the steel tariff bill at a rate which has never been equalled. The leaders evidently forget that they have frequently complained of "gag rule" when the Republicans were in control. Even Tom Reed in his palmiest days never forced a tariff bill through in two or three days.

Capacity loads of the finest ice in the history of the business will be stored in every house in the state before the end of the week. Will the price to consumers be any lower next summer?

It looks very much as if the party leaders had fixed everything so that Woodrow Wilson will be the choice of the Rhode Island Democrats for President.

Harry K. Thaw's attorneys are to try once more to secure his liberty. The papers will soon probably again be filled with the utterly uninteresting matter.

The Lawrence strikers are making a mistake by having recourse to rioting. Their friends and sympathizers cannot stand for that.

Eat oysters. A man in Cincinnati has found $800 worth of pearls in the shell of one.

UNITED STATES BARRED.

Failure of Government to Sign Berlin Convention Prevents Representation at Wireless Conference.

After consultation with representatives of the other powers which will attend the international wireless conference in London next June, the British officials, through the British foreign office, have withdrawn the invitation extended to the United States to attend the conference. The withdrawal of the invitation came to the State Department couched in diplomatic language, but made it clear that as the conference was to discuss the conventions governing wireless as well as wireless regulations, it would not be possible for any nation not a signatory to the Berlin wireless convention of 1906 to be represented.

This action comes as the first international result of the failure of this government to sign the Berlin convention. The United States sent delegates to the Berlin conference but the Senate failed to ratify the convention, thereby leaving the United States practically isolated among nations as far as wireless regulations are concerned.

Wireless experts of the United States government, backed by the State Department and the army and navy, say that the dignity of the United States will suffer from non-representation at the coming international conference, and that as a consequence the United States will not be able to share with other nations in studying the advance in wireless telegraphy made in Europe during the last six years.

About two months ago Great Britain extended the invitation to this government to send delegates.

ONE PENSION LESSON.

[Boston Transcript.]

Often is the immense expenditure of the United States for pensions cited as an argument for peace. What the government has paid out for the relief and assistance of the veterans of the Civil war since the close of that conflict is an impressive, even an astounding total. Up to the first of this year there has been drawn from the treasury an amount approximating four billions of dollars for pensioners of the Civil war. The direct money cost of saving the Union, independent of pensions, and reckoning only what was paid out during the existence of hostilities, aggregated also $4,000,000,000 or thereabouts in round figures. The rough total of these two items is $8,000,000,000. But what the general government expended is no measure of what the war cost, either during its continuance or in the pensions and claims consequent upon it. States, cities and towns all contributed in the way of bounties and in the patriotic forms of assistance to soldiers and their families to an extent of which we have no accessible statistical information at present. It would be the boldest of calculators who would risk his reputation by estimating down to dollars and cents the money cost of saving the Union.

LIP-READING.

[The Strand.]

The value of lip-reading to those who have the misfortune to be born deaf or to lose their hearing is inestimable. Deaf children are now happily taught to speak and to lip-read, and are thus brought into normal relations with the hearing and speaking world. One of the most interesting lessons to be witnessed at the Oral School for Deaf Children, at 11 Fitzroy square, London, is the synthetic lip-reading lesson of the kindergarten class, consisting of little children of from four to six years of age. Although they at present know the written names of very few of their toys, they can pick out any one of the 30 odds objects in their toy-box at the oral direction of their teacher. A child will be told to fetch a doll, get the bath and soap, wash the doll and dry it, and each action is performed as readily as though the child could hear.

As an "aid" to hearing for those who have become deaf in adult life, lip-reading is superior to any of the mechanical or electrical devices now on the market, good as some of these are for certain forms of deafness. The lip-reading instruction which is provided at the Fitzroy Square College has been taken advantage of by large numbers of deaf people, but many more would no doubt avail themselves of the facilities, provided they were aware of them and could they be brought to realize how serviceable a knowledge of lip-reading would be to them.

Governor Wilson Said to Have the Backing of the State Democrats.

Governor Pothier Seconds Red Cross Appeal for China—Colt Charity Consecrated.

As a result of the visit of Governor Wilson of New Jersey to Providence Sunday it is understood that he received practical assurance that the Rhode Island Democracy will stand behind him at the coming national convention in his candidacy for President of the United States. The visit was stated to be nothing but a social call, but the hearty reception, and the insistence that everything said and done at the conference be kept secret, are taken by politicians to mean nothing less than a pledge of support. Governor Wilson conferred with many of the Democratic leaders of the state during the afternoon at the Hope Club, where he was guest of former Governor James H. Higgins. The conference was conducted in secret, and it is stated that those present dispersed in an enthusiastic frame of mind. Governor Wilson had no statement to make for publication about his candidacy for the Presidential nomination, a custom which his managers and confidants declare he is carrying out to the letter. At the club the New Jersey executive was greeted by leaders of the state Democratic party, including, besides ex-Governor Higgins, Richard B. Comstock, Colonel Patrick H. Quinn, former Alderman Joseph H. Gainer, Judge Frank E. Fitzsimmons, George W. Greene, David J. Barry, Albert B. West, John J. Fitzgerald and Lewis A. Waterman. After luncheon the chief guest and the others discussed politics in general and Democratic possibilities in particular, but it was asserted that Governor Wilson's candidacy was only remotely touched upon, if referred to in any way. No speeches were made, the diners talking among themselves in groups about the table in an informal way.

Governor Pothier, in response to the appeals for funds as aid the famine-Taft as head of the National Red Cross, has notified the other members of the Rhode Island board of the appeal. This notification was given in a letter sent to Rathbone Gardner, treasurer of the board, of which the governor is the president. The governor's letter is in part as follows: "I am in receipt today of a telegram from the President of the United States, under date of January 26, 1912. As president of the Rhode Island State Board of the American Red Cross, I take this method of bringing to your attention, and to the attention of the members of the Rhode Island state board, and of the citizens of the state generally, the appeal embodied in the above telegram, in order that official recognition may be given the matter by the officials of the organization in this state, and that the public generally may know that contributions which they may desire to make for the relief of the situation in China may be forwarded through you to the national treasurer." The members of the state board are as follows: Rathbone Gardner, Providence, treasurer; Theodore Francis Green, Providence, secretary; Dr. Charles A. Brackett, Newport; William P. Buffum, Newport; Fred W. Easton, Pawtucket; Samuel L. Peck and George H. Utter, Westerly.

St. Michael's Church, Bristol, was thronged Sunday evening at the consecration and dedication service of the new chantry, given by Colonel Samuel P. Colt in memory of his son, Samuel P. Colt, Jr., who died many years ago. It was also the fiftieth anniversary observance of the consecration of the present St. Michael's Church, the fourth building since the parish was instituted in 1721. The anniversary of the consecration of the present church was continued from last November, when the funds amounting to $5,000 were obtained for the new chantry. Rt. Rev. James De Wolf Perry, bishop of the diocese, was in charge of the service, preaching the consecration sermon and officiating at the dedication service. Rev. George L. Locke, D. D., who has been the rector more than 40 years, delivered a historical address on St. Michael's Church, with its four edifices in nearly 200 years, the first having been burned to the ground by British troops in the Revolutionary war.

Rev. Morgan E. Pease, for the past year pastor of the Elmwood Avenue Free Baptist Church, Providence, read his resignation Sunday, having decided to accept a call recently tendered him to become the pastor of the Baptist Church at Richford, Vt. Rev. Mr. Pease is a Baptist clergyman by ordination and has been pastor of the Elmwood Avenue Free Baptist Church more in the nature of a permanent supply than as a regularly ordained minister of that belief. He is a native of Providence, the son of E. M. Pease, and was educated in the public schools of that city and at the Gordon training school in Boston, as well as under a private tutor. When a youth he began to preach, and for three years was in charge of the Harrisville Baptist Church, leaving there to go to Philadelphia, where he studied in the Crozer Theological School, and at the same time acted as pastor of the Lower Dublin Baptist Church, better known as the "Pennypack" Church. He remained there three years and during that time made a special study of Sunday School work. From there he went to the Scott Street Baptist Church at Baltimore, where he remained three years until forced, on account of his health, to give up his work. He was especially successful in his Sunday School work at this church. In February, 1910, he resigned his pastorate because of his health and returned to Providence, where he spent the next seven or eight months in rest, supplying pulpits in various parts of Rhode Island and Connecticut.

The Providence & Fall River Street Railway Company has not assigned, but has filed a record of a supplementary mortgage with the town clerk of Swansea in order still further to cover its bondholders. Cyrus M. Van Slyck, attorney for the Industrial Trust Company, says: "This is simply a supplementary mortgage. In the original covenant for the protection of the bondholders it covered all the property and what should afterward be acquired. Now the bondholders asked the trustee to get the supplementary papers to bring it under the mortgage formally and this was done, the company cheerfully complying." According to the terms of the original mortgage, made in 1901, the railroad agreed that all the property which it should acquire after that date should be used for the protection of the bondholders, and recently the bondholders decided that they wished this property to be brought formally under the terms of the mortgage. The bondholders expressed their desire to the Industrial Trust Company as the trustee, and the company asked the railroad officials for a supplementary document that would cover the rest of the property. This request was cheerfully complied with and the document was filed with Town Clerk Wood of Swansea as soon as it could be put in shape.

Arthur L. Smith, the retiring commodore of the Barrington Yacht Club, was presented a loving cup and a clock by the members of that organization Saturday evening at the annual meeting of the club. Mr. Smith was the first head of the club, being elected April 4, 1908, when it was organized with 15 members, without a clubhouse, treasury or property. Now the club has a membership of 220 and a balance of $102.21 in the treasury.

Rev. George McClellan Fiske, rector of St. Stephen's Church, Providence, was unable to conduct services there Sunday, being confined to his home by an attack of acute indigestion. Dr. Fiske was taken ill Thursday. His attending physician has assured the family that the sickness is not serious.

THE WEATHER.

BOSTON, Jan. 29.—Forecast for Boston and vicinity—Snow this afternoon, changing to rain tonight; Tuesday fair; warmer tonight, increasing easterly winds.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

The weather is unsettled in most districts, except over the Rocky Mountain plateau districts and the eastern slope, and the Southwest, where generally clear skies prevail. Rain is falling this morning in the southeastern states, rain and sleet in the Middle Atlantic states, lower Lake region, and snow in the upper Lake region, southern New England, and the upper Mississippi valley. The trough of barometeric depression extends from northern Ohio to southern Alabama. A moderate high pressure area overlies eastern New England. West of the Mississippi rivre the pressure is above the normal except in the extreme Northwest. The temerature is above the normal from Ohio southward to the Gulf, but it is elsewhere generally near the seasonal average. In New York at 8 a. m. it was 26, Boston 17, Washington 28, Jacksonville 66, St. Louis 24, Chicago 22, St. Paul 14, Des Moines 18, Kansas City 24, Denver 22, San Francisco 48 and Portland, Oregon 44.

ALMOST DOWN TO ZERO WEATHER.

Another Cold Snap Sunday Followed by Snow and Warmer.

New Iceboat and Big Crowd of Skaters on the Pond—Ice Harvest Almost Complete.

The snow did not come Sunday, but enough cold came to suit a lover of Arctic expeditions. It had promised to be cold Saturday night, but what was furnished Sunday morning was really too much. As to just how cold it was people differ. One delegation will say the only thermometer they saw was 3 above and others were at zero or below. There were many which were not so low. One recorded 9 at 5 a. m. and 8 at 7, when the lowest mark was reached; it advanced to 21 at 11:30.

This morning it was somewhat warmer, and it has grown a trifle warmer since, but not much. The record at the Water Works Pumping Station was 3 Sunday morning and 23 this morning, and that seems to have been about the difference; another thermometer gave 8 Sunday and 22½ this morning.

It snowed today. Starting about 7 and snowing very lightly, it had almost turned to rain by 1 o'clock. It was too cold to rain and hail was the change made; then it shifted back to snow again. The northeast storm signal is flying, but local weather sharps look for a shift to southeast and rain.

The storm prevented Block Island steamer New Shoreham from leaving at the usual hour, but she pulled out shortly after 2 o'clock, when the snow had lightened so that travel was safe. There are a large number of big towboats in, with tows, waiting for better weather.

The new iceboat North Wind was launched, on the ice, Saturday afternoon at Easton's pond and the boys had an opportunity to compare her with Mr. Johnson's The Bird, which has been out some days. The new craft is a Herreshoff design and to the non-iceboat mind seems a trifle tender in construction compared with the solid build of The Bird. However, that is likely to be the impression of a Herreshoff boat when compared with others, and it has been found in the end that the lighter Herreshoff craft has always given a good account of herself and lasted well. So probably the new iceboat will do.

The iceboat was not the only thing on the pond Sunday. There were so many skaters that it was not safe for the boat to knock about much. All over both ponds were skaters of all ages and varieties of costume and skates, having the "time of their lives." The north or Green End pond was a trifle better for skating than the south. Some may have feared that the ice cutting on the north pond would reduce the skating area, but most of the places where ice has been cut were already frozen over so solidly that here was no danger and about all the skater needed to look out for was the canal and the cutting field where the Arctic company's men were at work.

The cutting attracted, as usual on a fair day, a big crowd. It has been some time since spectators had as good an opportunity to see the men at work as on Sunday and they were there to see them. There was a big force at work on the pond, on the runs and inside the houses, the latter working in their shirt sleeves. The ice going in was from 12 to 14 inches thick and the best harvested in years, and the best this season, it having improved each day.

The work at Easton's pond began a week ago Sunday with marking out, the cutters being still engaged at the Lily pond. Monday morning the main gang was shifted to Easton's and the work of running into the big house was begun. It has gone on steadily since, with the result that the fourth run was in operation, Sunday and if the work could continue as it was then going on the big house would be filled by Tuesday night. This would be a record, to fill this big house in nine working days. The weather has been generally favorable, the ice has been hard and has worked well and every one has been able under these favorable conditions to do better and more work than under ordinary circumstances.

The Newport Fisheries Company is still cutting some ice, though where the men are finding a place to put it is a wonder. Out on the island the farmers have been led by the superabundance of fine ice to make stacks in addition to the supplies in their regular houses and the crop of the season of 1912 promises to be the "biggest ever." In fact, there is more on hand now than ever before, and still more will be cut.

Y. M. C. A. CONTEST ON.

Six Teams Already Organized for Membership Canvass and Others to be Formed.

The Young Men's Christian Association campaign opened this morning and the first day's report will be made between 7 and 8 o'clock this evening, is awaited with much interest. First attention will be devoted to bringing in renewals of members whose dues are payable at this time of the year, and to enlist their help in obtaining new members.

Following are the six teams which have already been organized to canvass for new members and probably two or three more will be formed this evening. John Mahan, captain, Charles Cowles and Donald Speers; Herbert Bliss, captain, Robert Frame and F. W. Putman; William E. Brightman, captain, Winfield S. Sisson and William MacLeod; W. W. Farnum, captain, E. A. Sherman and Harry Draper; Fred P. Lee, captain, Henry A. Curtis and Alexander MacLellan; Karl K. Squires, captain, J. Arthur Eddy, Jr., and Philip H. Slocum.

TWO WEDDINGS.

A quiet weddding took place at St. Joseph's rectory Saturday evening, the bride being Miss Helena Pauline McCrohan and the groom Mr. Matthew John Faerber. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. A. Doran, D. D. The bride, who was accompanied by her sister, Miss Mary McCrohan, wore a tailored suit of blue with hat to match. Mr. Philip Mahoney was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Faerber left later on the Fall River line boat for New York and Philadelphia.

At St. Mary's rectory Sunday evening Miss Agnes Veronica Murray and Mr. John Frederick Carry were married by Rev. William B. Meenan. The bride wore a gown of white silk trimmed with Irish lace and a large black picture hat She was attended by her sister, Miss Annie L. Murray, who also wore white silk, trimmed with duchess lace. Both carried prayer books. Mr. George D. Ferrent acted as best man. After the ceremony the bridal party held a reception to about 25 friends at the bride's home on Pope street. Owing to the recent death of the groom's brother the wedding was quiet. Mr. and Mrs. Carry left on the Fall River liner to spend their honeymoon in New York.

FALL RIVER LINE TROUBLES.

Plymouth, with a Cracked Shaft, Brings No Passengers and Providence Delayed for Repairs.

A shift was made in the Fall River Line boats today, due to a fracture found in one of the Plymouth's cylinders at New York Sunday, when the daily test was made by Chief Conklin and his force. The crack in the cylinder was at once reported and notice sent to this city to gather the crew of the Puritan and have them begin preparing that steamer to take the place of the Plymouth on the line. There was no boat from New York Sunday night; that is, no passenger boat. The Plymouth came through, but would take no passengers. The fact that she came through, reaching her dock here at 5 o'clock this morning, showed that she could come all right, but the management would take no chances with passengers on a boat whose machinery was not thoroughly dependable and the passengers went by other routes.

The men began work on the Puritan at once and she was ready this morning, when the Plymouth arrived, for the transfer of crews. This took place with the supplies, etc., and this afternoon at 1:50 the Puritan left for Fall River to take her place on the line and run to New York tonight.

Steamer Providence at this end had some trouble also, but these were exterior and due to the ice. From a line drawn from Common Fence Point, the northernmost point of this island, across to Mount Hope and north as far as the water runs there is a solid mass of ice, through which the New York boats break a way night and morning. In making her last trip in Sunday morning the Providence smashed some of the buckets of her wheels so that a gang was sent from the shops here to make repairs. This work, always heavy and difficult, took so long that it was nearly 1 o'clock this morning when the Providence arrived from Fall River to take passengers here for New York.

It was at such a time as this that the new steam-heated waiting rooms showed their worth. Despite the cold outside, the rooms were in fine condition and passengers did not need to take exercise to keep warm.

The Plymouth is tied up here for repairs. Just what will be necessary will be known only after a survey, but a new cylinder will be one of the things put in.

BOTH ST. GEORGE'S WIN.

Defeat Training Station and Colonial Five—Quarry Boys and Helmars Also Victors.

At the St. George's School gymnasium Saturday two games of basket ball were played, the school teams winning each. In the first, with the Training Station, the first team won, 17 to 6, and in the second the second team beat the Colonial Five, 16 to 12.

The score in the first half of the opening match was 8 to 2 and in the second 9 to 4, for St. George's. The feature shot was by Foster, a long one about three fourths the length of the floor. Buchanan and Foster were the stars for St. George's and Johnson and Allifan for the visitors. The line-up follows:

St. George's		Training Station
Buchanan, l. f.	r. b.,	Connell, Waterman
Goodspeed, r. f.	l. b.,	Reamy, Greene
Foster, c.	c.,	Fogarty, Johnson
Gale, l. b.	r. f.,	Allifan
Crocker, r. b.	l. f.,	Spear

Score—St. George's 17—baskets, Buchanan 3, Foster, 4, Gale 1; from foul, Goodspeed. Training Station 6—baskets, Johnson, Allifan, Spear. Referee—McLean.

The second game, between the second team and the Colonial Five, made up of ushers at the Colonial Theatre, was a clean exhibition, few fouls being called. In the first half St. George's led, 9 to 7, and in the second the visitors improved so that the score was 7 to 5, though still in favor of the school team. Townsend and Redway did the best work for St. George's and Sullivan and Biesel for the Colonials. The sides:

St. George's Second.		Colonial Five.
Grace, l. f.	r. b.,	Goddard
Redway, r. f.	l. b.,	Speer
Townsend, c.	c.,	Sullivan
Buell, l. b.	r. f.,	Biesel
Carpenter, r. b.	l. f.,	Martland

Score—St. George's 16. Baskets—Redway 2, Townsend 4, Carpenter 1; fouls, Redway 2. Colonial Five 12. Baskets—Sullivan 3, Biesel 2; from fouls, Biesel, Martland.

The times of both games were 15 minute halves.

The Quarry boys won a decisive victory over the Olympics of Fall River at the Training Station Saturday evening, the score being 46 to 17. The contest was fast and clean and the Olympics put up a better game than the score would indicate, the clever defensive work of the Quarry Boys preventing many good tries for goal. The line-up:

Quarry Boys.		Olympics.
Bowley, r. f.	l. b.,	Murphy
Riley, l. f.	r. b.,	T. Anfrews
Kain, c.	c.,	J. O'Brien
Halley, r. b.	l. f.,	M. Murphy
Horgan, l. b.	r. f.,	Quinlan

The Cloyne School second team was defeated by the Helmar Athletic Club at Cloyne Saturday afternoon, the score being 17 to 9, in a finely played game. Lee and R. Curtiss did the best for the school team and T. Sheehan and Harmon and Murphy divided the honors for the Helmars. The line-up follows:

Helmar.		Cloyne.
A. Sheehan, r. f.	l. b.,	B. Curtiss
Berigan, l. f.	r. b.,	R. Curtiss
Murphy, c.	c.,	Lee
Harmon, r. b.	l. f.,	Cox
T. Sheehan, l. b.	r. f.,	Williams

OUTCLASSED IN ATHLETICS.

Y. M. C. A. Juniors Lose at Fall River Meet, But Have Good Time, Notwithstanding.

The Young Men's Christian Association Juniors who went to Fall River Saturday as guests of the Fall River Association had a good time, even though they were outclassed in the athletic contests. The Fall River boys naturally were anxious to recover the points they lost on their visit to Newport, and accordingly no time was lost in going on the crowded gymnasium floor.

The meet began by mingling all the boys in a setting-up drill, in which there were nearly 100. After this the different events were run off in quick succession, as there was no time to spare. These included potato races, broad jumps, high jumps and relay races. Then came an exhibition in the swimming pool. The meet closed with a large score in favor of the entertainers. Harry Townsend was Newport's star competitor and received a large share of praise for the showing he made.

After the meet a substantial lunch was served and compliments were exchanged by the different leaders.

A Salmon Falls Man Killed by a Bale of Cotton Falling Upon Him.

SALMON FALLS, N. H., Jan. 29.—Joseph Theoret, 50 years a yard hand employed by the Salmon Falls Manufacturing Company, was killed today by a bale of cotton falling upon him from a second story and breaking his neck. William Murphy of Bangor, another yard hand, also was struck by the bale and had ribs broken. Theoret is survived by a widow and four children.

A DRIVE ABOVE THE CLOUDS.

All Seasons and All Days Have Their Charm Along Malahat Road, Vancouver Island.

[Ernest McGaffey, in Christian Science Monitor.]

The Appian Way, the road from Ghent to Aix, Rotton Row, and many another highway of ancient and modern times have been celebrated in song and story, but in days to come the one scenic drive which is likely to overtop all others in point of variety of beauty, stateliness and individuality will be Malahat Drive, Vancouver Island, British Columbia, Canada.

It was a daring conception that dreamed a highway there; a still greater degree of daring which constructed it. As an engineering problem, it was dealt with in an attitude of defiance, for seemingly impossible difficulties in the way of grades were moulded into submission by making the very crags and cliffs of the mountains themselves furnish the roadway.

You cannot imagine such vistas of forest and broken woodland, ribboned lengths of smooth roadbed, glimpses of sea and shore, lake and river, waterfall, mountain peaks, savage gorges and stretches of fern-clad rock, until you have traveled the road yourself. Parts of it are as quiet and uneventful as the average country road. It is the surprises that count. You may come abruptly to a turn where the perspective broadens out to apparent illimitability over wastes of sea water and far cameos of serrated mountain ranges; or you may dip from the heights to aisled corridors of stately forest trees, silent and brooding.

Here and there a deer may bound away into the bracken, his white tail flashing back as he disappears in awkward leaps. Or a blue grouse may flutter up to a convenient low limb, and stare stupidly as the traveler goes by. The golden-winged woodpecker flits to the tops of dead stubs, or sends his challenge out from burned tree-trunks but, for the most part, the woods are steeped in stillness.

As you wind in and out among the bends and angles of this marvelous road you begin to realize the stupendous nature of the original undertaking. Miles of it have been blasted out of the sheer rock and piled along the mountain sides. The highway coils about Malahat mountain like a string about a boy's top. The road soars like the flight of a golden eagle, cloudward and sunward, in steady rings, and with a sense and significance of ease and power. Here and there along its course you will come across waterfalls, plunging into pools cupped in the hills, fern-shaded and foaming, with darting trout in the basins and hollows below the falls. Here and there will glint a meadowy strip of tilled land, with higher up a smoke signal from some settler's cabin.

The idea of eternal change is in the meanderings and convolutions of the drive, and with sunlight in the valley and fog on the heights you may pass from one to the other amid a kaleidoscopic glitter of leaf and ripple of moss and naked rock. In the spring and early summer the dogwoods star the green masses of fir and hemlock with their pale blooms, their burnished emerald leaves lending lovely contrast to the fair snow of the flowers. In the fall the maples burst into a shower of gold, as a rocket breaks into a million saffron spangles, high in mid-air. In the winter snow envelops the higher places, blanketing the hills with a soft and woolly mantle that melts into the streams lower down the slopes.

All seasons and all days have their charm along Malahat Drive. Even among the burned tracts there will come a gleam of moss and fern, the tracings of a grouse's flight, or the pencilled silhouettes of stark tree-forms borne upward. Eastward the signs of villages glint hazily and still further east the waters of Haro strait and the strait of Georgia; eastward further yet are the distant peaks of the Olympics; and beyond and nearly indiscernible lie the gray wraiths of fading horizons, melting into the blue.

Smooth, shining, clear-cut, into the hills the road dives, threads the woodlands, crosses the bridges, mounts to the shining heights, and sinks into the shadowy valley as a swimmer drops from a springboard to the covering waters of some glassy pool. Such a poignancy of beauty, such color, motion, strength, poise, and majesty. Surely there be many highways and byways in the world, many long known and widely heralded paths of greater or less renown but there is only one Malahat Drive.

LOCAL BRIEFS.

—The public schools are having their term examinations this week.

—Senator R. Livingston Beeckman has given $10,000 to the Brown University endowment fund.

—Mrs. Lewis Cass Ledyard will give a musicale at her New York residence Thursday evening.

—Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Brooks sailed last week for England, to visit Mrs. Brooks's sister, Mrs. Waldorf Astor.

—Mrs. Walter N. Hill, Miss Helen Fairchild Smith and Miss Katharine L. Hill left today for St. Augustine, Fla., for a visit of about two months.

—Mrs. Henry H. Mudge and her daughter, Miss Estelle Mudge of Bristol, have completed their visit to Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mayer at "Sleepe Hill Farm."

—Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish will give a dinner Thursday evening, February 15, at her New York residence, her first entertainment after a long period of mourning.

—Mrs. J. Mitchell Clark has joined Mr. Clark at their shooting box in northern Florida. Later they will go to Miami, where they have chartered a yacht for a trip around the Florida keys.

—The officers of the Grand Court of Rhode Island, Foresters of America, will make an official visit to Courts Wanton, Pride of the City and Friendship of this city at a union meeting to be held Monday evening, February 19, in Masonic hall.

—The entertainment, "Scenes from Dickens," to be given by the Women's Alliance at the Channing parlor, in celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the author's birth, is to consist of scenes from several of his books, with dialogue and action.

—The Memorial Presbyterian Church of Brooklyn has extended a call to Rev. Dr. John Barlow. The former pastor of the church, Rev. T. Calvin McClelland, resigned a few months ago because of failing eyesight. Dr. Barlow was born in England 40 years ago, and was educated at Glastonbury College and London University.

LITTLE DONE BY CONGRESS.

Senate Has Been In Session Less Than Three Days of Each Week.

The House Puts in Six Days—Oregon Postoffice In Fir Tree—A Mix-up in Dress Suits.

[Washington correspondence of the News.]

WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The Senate has for two months been in session less than three days of each week. The House, on the contrary, especially for several weeks past, has been working industriously six days a week. Neither body has accomplished very much.

The Senate does not pretend to do anything. The House makes a great bluff at its work, but spends days and days upon trivialities. Many sessions have been devoted to trifles in the District of Columbia appropriation bill, petty little points of order are raised and questions asked about things of no importance and there are wrangles without wit or eloquence, all of which makes the sessions rather dull.

The manner in which business has been delayed in the house indicates a disposition on the part of Minority Leader Mann to try out the new rules and show that the House will have to go back to the old Reed rules as Cannonized to get through all the business.

Several times Mann has forced the House to waste a day in order to prove his theory that the reformed rules will not work satisfactorily. It is expected that when the session drags out into the spring and summer months with much business yet to transact members who want to get home and look after their political interests will become restless and insist upon more expeditious methods of legislation.

With Senator Cummings an avowed candidate for the Presidency another golfer is in the field. There ought to be a fellow feeling between the President and Cummins on this account, but it has not been recorded that Cummins was ever invited to play in a Presidential game of golf.

Senator Jonathan Bourne of Oregon claims that his state has the most unique postoffice in the country. It is located at Black Rock, in the central part of Pike county, and Uncle Sam's business is conducted in the hollow part of a huge yellow fir tree. The stump is 25 feet in diameter.

"Ordinarily," said Senator Bourne, "a community would hail with delight the prospect of a new postoffice building, but if I were to make such a suggestion to the patrons of that office they would organize an anti-Bourne club in about 15 minutes. Yes, indeed, Oregon is a great state that can grow anything from apples to postoffice buildings."

It so happens that Representative Helm of Kentucky and Representative Kitchin of North Carolina both live at the same hotel, and both went to the last White House reception. The unusual thing about this is that each had sent his dress suit out to be pressed before the eventful evening, and the boy who returned them a short time before they were needed made a mistake. Each had to wear the clothes of the other in consequence and as one of the men is larger in result is obvious.

How the two managed to get through the evening without serious consequences. When they met at the White House that evening each started to apologize and explain, and Mr. Helm wound up by saying:

"Kitchin, I'm glad of one thing, and that is that you don't live in my district. You'd be trying to get into my shoes as well as my clothes."

Senator Shelby M. Cullom has been in the Senate so long that his years of service exceed the total of 25 others now in that august body. Mr. Cullom was riding on the elevator not long ago with one of the white haired conductors, whom he has known for two decades.

"How are you this morning?" said Mr. Cullom.

"Thank you, Senator, I am all right physically," said the employe.

"Why do you say 'physically?'" asked the Senator.

"Because I have missed the first pay day today that I have missed in 20 years," was the answer.

Further inquiry developed the fact that the elevator man had been removed from the rolls.

"Well, we old timers ought to stick together," said Senator Cullom. And shortly after that the employe was on the pay roll again.

Minority Leader Mann has tried several times to make the Democratic majority do what he wants them to do in the way of voting for or against bills, but under the leadership of Chairman Underwood these Democrats show that they know the game and will perform only in their own way.

Arthur W. Dunn.

WIN RACQUET DOUBLES TITLE.

Shaw and Fearing of Boston Take Match by Default and Lose in an Exhibition Game.

One of the New York teams, Milton S. Barger and Payne Whitney, came through to the final round in the national four-handed racquet championship tournament Saturday on the court of the Philadelphia Racquet Club. The team downed R. K. Cassatt and Wilson Potter of the Philadelphia club in the hardest kind of a match, which required the full seven games.

In the other half of the semi-final round Quincy A. Shaw and George R. Fearing of Boston, the title holder won decisively at the expense of J. Gordon Douglas and Lawrence Waterbury of New York. The champions make an ideal combination, Shaw being left-handed and Fearing right. This enables them to take a majority of their shots to the forehand. Fearing, always ready, takes all manner of difficult shots, while Shaw generally manages to "kill" the ball when the gets are easy.

After winning their match by default in the final round Sunday Fearing and Shaw were defeated in an exhibition match. The two players who lowered the colors of the champions were Payne Whitney of New York and George Harding, one of the best of the Philadelphia amateurs.

The original opponents of Shaw and Fearing should have been Whitney and Barger, but the last-named was unable to play because of an injury. It was during the second game, in which the New York pair were opposed to R. K. Cassatt and Wilson Potter, that a lightning-like rebound of the ball from the fore wall hit Mr. Barger on the side of the head. As he continued to play nothing more was thought of the incident, but after he returned to New York, a physician had to be called. Word we sent that Mr. Barger would be unable to play.

Rather than disappoint those who had already gathered Messrs. Whitney and Harding agreed to team up and try out the champions. The mixed pair won by 15–12, 16–17, 15–10 and 15–5. This makes the tenth time since 1899 that a Boston pair has won the national doubles title. Last year H. J. Scott and Mr. Fearing scored the championship.

One judicial officer for whom there is no recall proposed is Judge Lynch. —[New York Tribune.

HOW TO GAIN HEALTHY FLESH.

Hall & Lyon Co. Advise Use of Samose.

While thinness may not be a disease, yet it is in reality a condition that needs attention. Under the nourishing power of Samose healthy, natural flesh will soon be attached.

This remarkable flesh-forming food strengthens the system generally and builds up the fleshy tissues so that good, natural plumpness results.

An ounce of flesh is better than a pound of theory. Hall & Lyon Co. believes that the best possible demonstration of the flesh-forming powers of Samose is to have it tried by their customers and to induce them to use it they offer to pay for the Samose in case it does not give satisfaction. No stronger proof than this can be given of their faith in it. They have seen hundreds who were weak, thin and scrawny become plump, robust and strong, solely through the use of Samose.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL.

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Newport People Know How to Save It.

Many Newport people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger. Use Doan's Kidney Pills—a remedy that has cured thousands of kidney sufferers.

The following statement leaves no ground for doubt.

Mrs. Frank Sylvester, 18 Congregational St., Bristol, R. I., says: "I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are an excellent remedy and cannot recommend them too highly. For some time my back ached and I was subject to dizzy and nervous spells. My kidneys did not act properly and I felt miserable in every way. Hearing about Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box and began their use. They helped me at once and soon completely relieved me. Another member of my family has taken Doan's Kidney Pills for disordered kidneys and weak back and they brought satisfactory results in this instance."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

LAWRENCE FACES GRAVE SITUATION.

the strikers commanded the passengers to leave and when the latter refused they were forced off with violence. Those who offered resistance were roughly handled and several men and women were seriously but not dangerously injured.

One man, John W. Fletcher, an employe of the Boston & Maine railroad, was mistaken for a mill operative and after being taken off a car by some of the rioters was so roughly used that he was rendered semi-conscious. He was taken to a hospital for treatment.

The rioting began an hour before the time for opening the mill gates and in the early morning a large crowd of strikers assembled at their headquarters, 321 Common street. Numerous flags were displayed and many of the men and women carried banners on which was printed: "We strike for justice."

Forming into line the strikers, consisting mostly of foreigners, marched into Essex street shouting and making themselves boisterous. Cars bearing men and women on the way to the mills to begin work for the day were stopped until a long line had been formed and the passengers in all were forced to the street.

For more than half an hour the strikers kept up their efforts in preventing cars from progressing along the street, in smashing windows and pummelling a number of the passengers. Women in the crowd cheered on the men in their rioting. Many of the passengers in the various cars hid under the seats in an endeavor to escape being hit by pieces of ice thrown by the rioters.

To quell the disturbance the whole police force was called out, including the reserve officers, but it appeared that the strikers outnumbered them too greatly.

Entrance to the mill district by the marchers was prevented by the companies of militia stationed in streets bordering the mills. The sight of drawn bayonets proved too fearful for the strikers and they did not attempt to pass the militiamen in a body, although a few were successful in going by the lines. Lieutenant T. D. Howe of Battery C succeeded in bringing the strikers into a somewhat pacified state of mind when he went to the head of the line of soldiers and urged the marchers to desist in their rioting.

A body of about 100 strikers left the main crowd and turned to enter the mill district by other channels, but were blocked by Company H, of the Eighth regiment. The strikers then marched up Broadway toward the Arlington mills, where they smashed several windows. A number of the strikers also surrounded the Boston & Maine railroad station, where the train for Boston was departing at the time, but there was no attempt at violence.

Several arrests were made during the forenoon. Taras Parnagian, an Armenian, was taken to the police station, where he was booked for an assault on City Marshal James T. O'Sullivan. It is alleged Parnagian was intimidating women operatives when the city marshal, dressed in civilian's clothes, came along and interfered. Believing Marshal O'Sullivan a yorker, Parnagian, it is alleged, assaulted the head of the city police force and was promptly lugged off to the police station. The other arrests were on charges of intimidation, rioting or carrying dangerous weapons.

During its march, the crowd of strikers endeavored to go over near the Everett mills, but at the request of Strike Leader Joseph Ettor a squad of militiamen kept the crowd away from the vicinity of the factories. Another crowd tried to go down Chase street and get in the rear of the Arlington mills, and two companies of the Eighth regiment had 15 minutes of hard work before they were able to turn the crowd down French street, away from the mill. The strikers then went down Broadway to Essex street, where more street cars were held up. James Lord, father of Superintendent Lord of the Pacific mills, a passenger on one of the street cars, was struck on the head by a bottle thrown through the car window by one of the disorderly persons in the crowd. Mr. Lord was badly cut on the head. David Bruce division superintendent of the Bay State Street Railway Company was also cut on the face by a missile thrown by one of the rioters.

As the parade of strikers passed the residence of Rev. Father Marino Milanese, pastor of the Italian Catholic Church, the priest who has championed the cause of the strikers, appeared at a chamber window and waved his hand at the marchers. He was cheered vigorously by the strikers.

SATURDAY AND SUNDAY AT THE ARMY AND NAVY.

An old-fashioned peanut social was held Saturday evening at the Army and Navy Young Men's Christian Association. The usual amount of peanuts showed up at the end of the "cyclone" and a "cracking" good time followed.

The Home Hour Bible Class met Sunday afternoon. After a short study on the question "How may I become a Christian?" the men assembled on the first deck and marched, 120 strong, to Emmanuel Church. A short program followed the luncheon. C. Osborne offered a vocal solo, C. M. Lever recited, A. Poole gave a vocal solo and R. Perkins thanked the women on behalf of the men for the good time. Mr. Smith, who has accepted a position in the building, was present and addressed the men.

Twenty states were represented, New York leading with a total of 31. One man claimed Russia as his native country.

The men attended the evening service in the church.

PROBATE COURT.

In the probate court this morning the will of Alexander LeClercq was proved and letters testamentary thereon were granted to Victorine Augustine LeClercq. Letters of administration on the estate of John Carley were granted to Mary A. Carley. Letters of administration were granted to Thomas J. Boyle on the estate of Elizabeth V. Boyle, and to James J. Connell on the estate of Mary A. Connell, notice being waived in both cases. The affidavit of the administrator on the estate of Mary A. Connell was ordered recorded. The first and final accounts of the executors of the estates of Hannah Isherwood and Martha Estelle Cogswell were allowed and ordered recorded. The inventory of the estate of John LaFarge was accepted and ordered recorded.

The petition for additional bond on the estate of George Washington Turner was continued to Saturday, February 3, at 11 a. m. On the petition for the administrator of the estate of Maria N. B. Gratrix to render an inventory citation was issued returnable February 19. The final account of the executor of James Egan was continued to February 19.

DECLARES HE WAS INNOCENT.

Albert Wolter Put to Death at Sing Sing for Murder.

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 29.—Albert Wolter was put to death in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison at 5:41 o'clock this morning for the murder of 15-year-old Ruth Wheeler, nearly two years ago. The girl went to Wolter's flat in New York in search of employment and he killed her after she had been mistreated.

Wolter left a statement with Warden Kennedy denying that he had committed the crime. At 2 o'clock this morning Wolter wrote his denial of the killing. The statement was written on a single sheet, and so even and clear were the letters formed that the writing had the appearance of copper plate. The statement reads:

"Warden J. S. Kennedy:
"To be given to the public: Jan. 29, 2 a. m.

"Now that I am departing from this earth to go into the presence of God, I wish to make this last statement:

"The world refused me justice, but our Father in Heaven, who knows our innermost, He will give me pure and undefiled justice. I wish to state I am innocent of the crime I was convicted of. I have been a victim of circumstantial evidence. I hope that there may come a time when the conscience of the perpetrator will overpower him and he will come to the front and acknowledge his guilt. It is my honest prayer to God that he may bring the persons guilty of the crime to justice that my name may be cleared of this stain and that the people may see the injustice done me and that they killed an innocent boy. Those who have given me their kind assistance and have trusted in me I give my sincerest thanks. To those who have maliciously persecuted and killed me, for them I pray God's forgiveness.

"Albert W. Wolter."

Although Wolter was convicted on circumstantial evidence, the court of appeals, reviewing the case after a series of legal delays, declared that he was fairly tried and justly convicted.

Ruth Wheeler met her death March 24, 1910, in Wolter's apartments on the fourth floor of a house on East Seventy Fifth street, New York city, where she had gone to seek employment as a stenographer. Her charred body was discovered subsequently. The evidence indicated that the girl had come to her death by strangulation and burning, after having been assaulted. The body had been thrust into a fireplace, where it was partly burned, and concealed until it became convenient to remove it in a bag to the fire escape, from which it was thrown to the ground below.

A TURN FOR THE WORSE.

Gravest Anxiety Felt as to the Condition of the Duke of Fife.

ASSUAN, Upper Egypt, Jan. 29.—The gravest anxiety is felt as to the condition of the Duke of Fife. The physicians in charge report today that his illness has taken a turn for the worse. He is suffering from pleurisy and congestion of the lungs. The duke contracted a severe chill while he was staying at Wadi Halfa. There was no physician in attendance there and he was brought to Assuan, where he was ordered to remain in bed. The disease has become more acute every day since January 26. It is thought he never completely recovered from a cold caught when he and the duchess, with their daughter, were wrecked with the Delhi off Cape Spartel in December.

CANOPIC MAY DOCK TUESDAY.

Boston's Welcome to Cardinal O'Connell Postponed Until Wednesday.

BOSTON, Jan. 29.—Mid-Atlantic gales are believed to have been the cause of the delay of the arrival of steamer Canopic with Cardinal O'Connell and suite on board, and the welcome of Boston's first prince of the church has been postponed until Wednesday. The Canopic was reported at noon today 600 miles east of Boston lightship and her arrival is not expected until late tomorrow night. Messages were sent to the cardinal today, asking him to arrange to leave the steamer at quarantine about 9 a. m. Wednesday. Bishop Anderson and the committee in charge of the welcome to the cardinal will go down the harbor before sunrise Wednesday and board the Canopic while she lies in quarantine. After a few words of greeting the cardinal will be taken on board the city steamer Mentor and brought to Long Wharf, where Mayor Fitzgerald and other city officials will extend the formal welcome of the city.

The procession, consisting of delegations from nearly all the Catholic societies in Boston, as well as many of the alumni of Boston College, will then escort the cardinal through the city to his home on Granby street, in the Back Bay district.

Many public and private buildings along the line of march blossomed out under national flags and cardinal and yellow decorations today, while at the entrance to the cardinal's home a large arch has been erected.

FINANCIAL.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29, Wall Street—The market opened with Amalgamated Copper 62, American Beet Sugar 55¼, American Smelting and Refining 70, Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe 105⅛, Baltimore & Ohio 104⅝, Canadian Pacific 229, Chesapeake & Ohio 71½, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul 106⅜, Erie 30¼, Great Northern preferred 128½, Great Northern Ore Ctfs 39¼, Interborough Metropolitan 17⅜, Interborough Metropolitan preferred 55½, Missouri, Kansas & Texas 27½, New York Central 109, Northern Pacific 116, Pennsylvania 123⅜, Reading 152½, Rock Island 24⅞, Southern Pacific 107¾, Southern Railway 27½, Union Pacific 163⅛ to 163⅜, United States steel 63¾ to 63½, United States Steel preferred 110⅞, Lehigh Valley 160⅜.

Noon—The activity and weakness of the stock market during the morning indicated that the force of the selling movement which set in late last week had not spent itself. There were a few points of strength in the list, and efforts to bid up New York Central, Reading and Lehigh Valley met with success at times, but the undertone was consistently weak. Traders said the effect of the pessimistic statement explaining the St. Paul dividend reduction had not worn off. The feeling of bearishness was emphasized by prophecies that the quarterly statement of the United States Steel Corporation, to be issued tomorrow, would be unfavorable. Heavy professional selling was resumed and the major portion of the list sold well below the previous low level before the decline was checked. United States Steel went down to 63. Bull operations pushed up individual stocks, and New York Central and Interborough Metropolitan Preferred sold two points above Saturday's close, Reading 1⅜ and Lehigh Valley 1. Rallies in United States Steel, St. Paul and the Hill and Harriman stocks reached a point or more, and the whole market was much improved in character at noon. Bonds were irregular. Money on call steady at 2½ per cent. Prime mercantile paper 3½ to 4 per cent. Exchanges $210,198,913; balances $12,335,627.

Statistics—Number of souls in the parish, 3,865; baptisms, adults 8, children 184; marriages, 61; first communions, 272.

In speaking of the report, which was really that of the late Father Mahon, Father Higney congratulated the parishioners on the fine showing made. He said that since he came here not a cent had he paid out; everything had been done already. The church is well along, the builders expect to start the plastering next week and everything in sight is paid for. "It is yours," he said to his parishioners. "Of course now that the fund saved up so carefully and for so many years, has been exhausted it will be necessary, in order to make further payments on the work, to execute a mortgage, but what has been done, the work that can be seen standing there, all belongs to the parish and has been paid for."

Following the report Father Higney spoke at some length to his new parishioners, whom he met in the church for the first time, having assumed the duties of his new parish Wednesday morning, when he offered a mass for the repose of the soul of the late pastor, Father Mahon. First, at the 10:30 or high mass, he congratulated the parishioners on the number attending. That is the mass of Sunday which the parishioners are expected to attend, if possible, the others being accommodations for those who are unable to be present at the mass at which the gospel is preached. He hoped that when, in a few months, the magnificent new church is opened for service, they would show the same attendance at the high mass; it was a good sign and pleasing to him.

Father Higney spoke of being ordered from his old parish at Arctic to succeed Father Mahon. He thought the building of a new church here a labor which calls for a younger man, in full strength and activities, with all his faculties alert. He had answered the call, for it was part of the work, but it was evident from what he said that it was with reluctance that he left his parish in Arctic. He told of meeting every man, woman and child who could come out to bid farewell to him before he left, and of visiting those who could not leave their homes. Every one had been a friend and a willing worker, ever ready to do his utmost to help the work of the parish.

When he arrived in St. Joseph's parish he found that here he was greeted as a friend and encouraged in his work, with the same spirit he had left in Arctic. He found the work which he expected would be so arduous had already been done. All that remained for him was to put on the finishing touches, the part where one can take some enjoyment in the work. The hard part was a thing of the past. Beginning from the very start, when Father Coyle came here and the parish was established, continuing under Father Deady, and especially owing to the great work of the late Father Mahon the parish affairs were always in such condition that there seemed nothing for him to do but finish the work so well begun and so well carried along by his predecessors. This he would endeavor to do, with the continued aid of the parishioners, on whom he relied to help him as they had helped his predecessors.

How long he would be with them no one knew; it might be for many years; the summons may come in a short time. When it comes he hoped and prayed that his accounts with the parish would be, not in the perfect condition in which he found Father Mahon's accounts—he could not hope for that—but as nearly in that condition as possible. When he came and examined the accounts of Father Mahon with the parish he found every account, every bit of work, done so well and so perfectly that there could be no possible mistake or error in understanding just what the condition was.

In relation to the financial work of the parish the new pastor said every one is expected to do what he can, but whatever he gives to give with a willing heart. He did not wish any contributions other than those given with the best wishes of the giver. "Remember," he said, "that you are only giving to God part of what God has given you for his honor and glory."

Faeher Higney said it was with great pleasure that he had learned that the two assistants of the parish are to remain with him and assist him in the parish work, as they had so well done in the past. He had known both his assistants before, but not as he had grown to know and love them during his short time in the parish.

He spoke of the feeling of love the people should have for their late pastor, Father Mahon, who had done such great work for the parish. He had offered his first mass in the parish Wednesday for the repose of his soul. He hoped every member would daily remember the late pastor in his prayers, as he intended doing himself. The love and veneration all should fel should lad to this for the late Father Mahon.

The pastor also spoke briefly of the Feast of the Purification on Friday, when the candles for the year are blessed, and what each good Catholic family should have in case of illness, when the priest comes to see one sick, one of the essentials being a candle blessed on the Feast of the Purification.

At all the services there was a large attendance and all were pleased with the new pastor. It was evident that at present there will be no change in the services of the parish, the arrangements continuing as they were under Father Mahon.

GIFT FROM SENATOR BEECKMAN.

St. Joseph's Holy Name to Have Mass for Father Mahon and Reception to Father Higney.

The monthly meeting of the St. Joseph's Holy Name Society was held Sunday evening, with a large number present. A letter of condolence to Miss Mahon and her reply were read by the secretary, and it was voted that the society have a mass for the late Father Mahon, to be said Tuesday, February 6 and that the society attend in a body.

The surprise of the evening came when a letter was read from Senator R. Livingston Beeckman, saying he had donated a pool table for the society's room. It was voted to have another supper, the same as last year, the date being set for February 21. Rev. Dr. Doran spoke to the members on various subjects and four new members were added to the list.

Next Sunday evening in the hall the society will hold a reception to the new pastor, Father Higney, at which all the men of the parish will be invited. Mr. C. W. R. Callahan giving an address of welcome.

A FOUR-DAY PROGRAM.

Weenat Shassit Tribe of Red Men Preparing for Its Twenty-Fifth Anniversary.

Weenat Shassit Tribe of Red Men is preparing to celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary, next May. There had been other organizations of Red Men, including the Red Jackets, in Newport previous to May 12, 1887, when Weenat Shassit Tribe was formed as a subordinate branch of the Improved Order of Red Men. It has been one of the most successful fraternal organizations in the city, having a membership of more than 500.

The plans for the anniversary include a four days' celebration, beginning Sunday, May 19, when the order will attend in a body the evening service at one of the churches. Monday evening there will be a powwow, at which it is expected to have a class of candidates for initiation. Tuesday at a banquet it is expected to have a number of the prominent members of the organization as speakers, and Wednesday evening there will be a social at which the members of the families of members and the members of the Degree of Pocahontas will be invited to share in the festivities.

BEHIND THE ANTI-GAMBLING MOVEMENT.

[Boston Transcript.]

Two Boston women who have summer homes at Newport are alleged to be mainly responsible for the reform movement that has suppressed gambling, checked the illegal sale of liquor and discouraged unwholesome amusement enterprises at that resort. It is added that men who are prominent in the summer colony have materially aided them. Those manifestations of equal rights are such as, whatever his or her political views, every good citizen approves.

NEW NAVAL ATTACHE AT ROME AND VIENNA.

Lieutenant Commander Richard Drace White, recently relieved as fleet lieutenant on the staff of the commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, has been appointed naval attache at Rome and Vienna to succeed Commander Andrew T. Long, who returns home. Lieutenant Commander White will assume his duties July 1. He is now on duty at the office of naval intelligence in Washington.

Lieutenant Commander White is a native of Missouri and entered the service May 20, 1895. He was assistant to Captain W. S. Sims when that officer served as inspector of target practice, and began the work of putting gunnery in the American navy on an efficient basis.

MIDDLETOWN.

Modern Methods of Teaching Reading and Geography Explained.

Addresses at Educational Meeting by Miss Craig and Mr. Vinol of the Normal School.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

Although the educational meeting held at the town hall Saturday afternoon was for the benefit of teachers, it was also open to all interested in advanced methods of instructing the young. The seven teachers of the town were present, with one from Portsmouth, one from Newport, two from Middletown who are teaching out of the town, two from the teaching force at the Methodist Episcopal Sunday School, a member of the Middletown school committee and a member of the special committee to look into the school problem; also a few others interested in education. It was not a large gathering, but attentive and appreciative.

Miss Elizabeth A. Peckham, teacher at the Peabody annex, who had been largely instrumental in completing the arrangements, presented the speakers, Miss Clara E. Craig of the state normal training department and William G. Vinal, instructor in geography, who recently came to the State Normal School from that at Salem School Commissioner Ranger has been supplying speakers wherever there is a demand for them.

Miss Craig, who is an easy speaker, with an attractive personality, first presented the subject, "Reading and Language," holding the close attention of her hearers for an hour. Reading she considered a means of progress to other work, for without a good foundation in reading children cannot clearly grasp history or geography or even read understandingly problems in arithmetic. She considered reading the most poorly taught of all studies, because of the mistaken idea that children can learn reading by reading, whereas this method alone, without the child's having grasped the meaning—the sense of what he is reading—makes the study merely a mechanical repetition and often only an imitation of what he has heard read. The child needs to be led out of this mechanical stage into a more intelligent understanding of what he really is reading, for the definition of reading is "the grasp of thought from a written or printed page."

If the teacher can suggest to the child by pictures, by symbols, by sympathetic conversation, the meaning—the idea—of what he is to read or is reading, the interest is aroused and the attention concentrated, and a clearer understanding is the result, not a mere calling off of words. An interest in oral reading can often be awakened by teaching the child that he is contributing something to the class in giving out the idea clearly. Of course position must be considered, quality of voice, tone, expression, pronunciation, articulation, and the melody or emphasis is most important. In most cases, however, if the child has the thought he will naturally emphasize the right words, as emphasis shows the motive. In closing, Miss Craig said she knew of no more fitting words than those taken from the Scripture "They read from the book of the law of God, plainly and distinctly."

Mr. Vinol prefaced his subject, "Geography," by brief remaks on South America, a large map of which he brought with him and which was suspended from the double doors facing his audience. More erroneous statements, Mr. Vinol said, had been made concerning this continent than about any of the others, regarding its size, position and conditions.

Mr. Vinol's ideas in teaching geography was, in a way, similar to that put forth by Miss Craig in regard to reading—interest the children first by clear explanations, and have them learn the facts afterwards, instead of the old-fashioned methods of cramming names and statistics. The idea is to learn all that is possible from the maps first, then study the fundamental features. Thus education leads one along an orderly path, effect following cause. The old-fashioned study of geography used to depend on the memroy, but by present methods reasoning proves a valuable aid and lends a practical interest, which is likely to become a permanent possesion. Not forgotten when school days end, as is often the case when an attempt is made to transfer pages from the text-book to the memory.

Often children see and know only definitions. The present aim in teaching is to have them see and understand things, places, people, first; definitions afterwards. In this way the idea is retained and the interest stimulated "Geography is the study of the earth in its relation to man as the home of man." Interest them in their home conditions—there is ample material—and from that they will desire to learn about other places. The study of geography hardly begins before the fourth and fifth grades, being taken up slow that as nature study.

Following the two addresses, a general discussion was found to be helpful, especially that relating to the teaching of foreigners. Mr. Vinol taught for three years at Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va., and gave interesting personal facts concerning the geography of that section and the vital effect which the conditions of that country have upon its inhabitants, in contrast to Rhode Island. He especially spoke of the soil, of the inability to transport children to schools and of the poor schools as contrasted with the good roads and good schools in this state.

The Harmonia orchestra, to be heard under the auspices of the Epworth League in connection with the Ladies' Quartet of the Methodist Episcopal Church and Mr. Fred P. Webber reader, is new to Middletown, this being its first appearance. It comprises George H. Bryant 'cello; Archibauld C. Sherman, violin; Louis H. Chase, flute and Mrs. Webber piano.

The annual meeting of St. Columba's Guild resulted in the following election of officers: President, Mrs. Joseph F. Albro; vice president, Mrs. Lyman C. Josephs; secretary, Mrs. Edward J. Peckham; treasurer Miss Nellie R. Peckham.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Smith of the Rhode Island Normal School, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvin P. Smith of Valley road, has recently been elected president of the Senior class.

One of the skaters on the town pond recently attempted to cross ice which had been cut the day before and partially frozen over, and broke through, being later followed by one of the ice boats. Both were taken out immediately by the aid of grappling hooks, by the gang of men working on the ice.

Mrs. Clara B. Grinnell, a former nurse of Miss Mary Anthony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ashton C. Barker, will care for Miss Anthony during the next 10 days, that Mrs. Ida Hathaway may have a brief vacation. She has been with the aged invalid since Mrs. Grinnell went to Providence last April.

Mrs. J. Willis Peckham of Wapping road has been confined to her home by illness for the past 10 days.

Rev. Latta Griswold and Mr. Alan K. Wheeler have been housed for several days with heavy colds. Mr. Wheeler was unable to conduct his classes at St. George's School Saturday. Rev. Arthur N. Peaslee supplied at St. Columba, the Berkeley Memorial Chapel, Sunday morning in Rev. Mr. Griswold's absence. Rev. John B. Diman was the preacher.

NEEDED IN NEWPORT.

Clergymen and Others Discuss the Proposed Men and Religion Forward Campaign.

The meeting at the Young Men's Christian Association Sunday afternoon, was devoted to a further discussion of the Men and Religion Forward Movement, which it is proposed to inaugurate in Newport.

Rev. Gustavus A. Hulbert opened the discussion, speaking of the movement in general, its significance to the country, and its need in Rhode Island as much as in any state. This is a movement to relate every man to the life of Christ in such a way that so far as he is concerned a better condition already exists, and so far as possible he will help others in the upward trend.

General Secretary Chapin said the campaign should be far enough off so that the people would have time to become thoroughly aroused to the subject and so be prepared for the information when it comes from the experts. What they have to say will be of value then, because not only the ministers but also the laymen will be interested in the work with which they are dealing.

Mr. Alexander McLellan thought the men in the churches should take hold of this movement with more enthusiasm.

Rev. Joseph Cooper added that it is the skepticism of the church people which can defeat a movement of this sort. There seems to be a lack of positive, vital faith. This movement must begin with a sort of rejuvenation of the men in the church, who must be awakened. The conditions in the city could not be as they are if the men in the churches realized their power. Why shouldn't the men have done what the women of the Civic League have done in the gambling episode? "Somehow there has been a lack of courage—shall I put it that way?—on the part of the men of the church. We have been too little concerned and lacking in backbone fibre to demand a change of these conditions." It is a crisis in the moral conditions of Newport. The natural question is: "Will this cleansing process be permanent; and how?"

Rev. Mr. Hulbert said it was time for the men to be thoroughly aroused to the subject. Mr. William D. Goddard asked several questions concerning the plans.

It was voted to send a telegram to Governor Pothier, commending his action in closing gambling houses in Newport.

Next week the movement will be discussed from some specific phase of work.

INSTALLATION AND SOCIAL.

At the meeting Sunday evening of the Father Mathew Total Abstinence Society the officers for the year were installed by Past President Michael F. Vaughan as follows:

President—Daniel E. Doherty.
Vice President—James M. Kinwin.
Recording Secretary—Charles F. Gifford.
Financial Secretary—J. Joseph M. Martin.
Treasurer—V. V. W. Walters.
Librarian—P. H. J. Leeson.
Marshal—John P. Casey.
Sergeant-at-Arms—Timothy J. Hayes.
Board of Directors—Thomas Keenan, Benjamin F. Carter, Michael F. Vaughan, W. Murphy, Michael Harrington, James J. Martin.
Finance Committee—Frank Martin, Daniel Doyle, James Hickey.
Trustee, for three years—Thomas Ryan.

Mr. Doherty begins his seventeenth consecutive year as president and other officers have had long service in their respective duties.

After the business of the meeting there was a social, during which songs were sung by Charles B. Gifford, J. Frank Albro, Henry Kelly, Benjamin Crowell, Harry Hickok and John F. Sullivan, the last names giving by request "The Old Sunday Dinner." Professor Albert Commette was the accompanist and McCloskey's orchestra rendered several selections.

MASSES FOR FATHER MAHON.

That Father Mahon is not forgotten by his late parishioners is shown again this week, when there will be three requiem masses for the repose of his soul. One this morning was at the request of the Sanctuary Society of the Church that Tuesday morning will be at the request of the children of the parish, who will attend in a body, and Wednesday morning's at the request of the Sodality of the Blessed Virgin. The two societies will attend, as well, as was shown this morning, as many others not members.

NO HOCKEY MATCH.

The Rogers High School hockey team did not play as per schedule Saturday, as the team from the Durfee High School of Fall River did not appear. Manager Baker had the game arranged Wednesday, and did not hear again from the Durfee manager. The local boys were early at the pond, and after a time two scrub teams were organized and an interesting game took place.

If the Athletic Association should count two forfeited games as victories the members of the hockey team would receive their R's, as they have had two games forfeited and have won one.

TRAINING STATION NOTES.

Owing to the illness of Chaplain McGinty, the Catholic Church party Sunday was marched over to the city and divided, some going to St. Joseph's and some to St. Mary's.

At the service held in the auditorium Mrs. Frances Thayer Remele, a guest of Mrs. H. W. Rankin, sang the solo, "Jesus, Lover of my Soul," to music by Schubert, and also in a duet for soprano and tenor, Mr. Rankin, the music master, taking the tenor part. Both numbers were specially well rendered. Mrs. Remele has a voice of wide range and excellent purity of tone. Her husband, Rev. William A. Remele, is pastor of the Congregational Church at Wakefield, Vt.

Sunday evening the quartet choir of the Station, with the mandolin and guitar club, was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Mowry. There was music and light refreshments, ice cream and cake were served and cigars were smoked contentedly at the close.

A VISIT FROM A PRINCE.

Son of the German Emperor May Come to Newport Next Summer.

Conflicting Reports, Including the Establishment of the Embassy Here.

Newport may have a visit during the coming summer or early autumn of Prince Adalbert Ferdinand Victor of Prussia, one of the three bachelor sons of the German emperor. The New York Herald announces, on what it considers good authority, that the visit is assured that the German embassy will be located here during the summer and that two houses will be leased, one for the embassy and the other for the use of Prince Adalbert, in which he may entertain those who entertain him. The Herald says: "The prospective visit of Prince Adalbert is one of many signs that hold out the promise that Newport will have a more brilliant season than it has known in a decade. The news regarding Prince Adalbert has become a favorite topic of drawing room conversation and several men and women of consequence have expressed their intention of spending most of July and all of August at America's summer social capital."

The Washington Times is not so positive that the prince and the German embassy will be located here, saying the embassy will be moved to Newport, Bar Harbor, Beverly or some other summer social resort, the selection of which has not yet been determined. It says that "if the embassy is removed to Newport during the summer months Prince Adalbert may come here, but his visit will be brief and will not cause any change in the usual arrangements. After the departure of the German ambassador in May, Herr Hanlel von Haimhausen, counselor of the embassy, will be in charge.

"It is believed Prince Adalbert will hold social court in Newport, maintaining an establishment that will permit him to act as host to those whose invitations he previously accepted. Separate houses may be maintained for the embassy and for the prince. It is known, however, that the usual arrangements will be made for moving the embassy and that the prince will be housed there when his visit is made."

The Washington Times also says: "The visit of Prince Adalbert will be brief, and probably will be confined to whichever of the New England coast summer resorts the embassy is removed to. The ship will be the Bremen, which is now in West Indian waters, or a vessel of similar character that may replace the Bremen while she is docked in Germany. The visit of the prince probably will not occur until fall, and may coincide with the return to this country of Count von Bernstorff, who with the Countess von Bernstorff, will leave Washington in May."

Prince Adalbert is 28 years old, and is attached to the navy. He is now "kapitan-leutmann," which, literally translated, means "left-hand commander." Above this in rank is the position of commander. The present assignment of the prince, who is at Kiel, ends in July. He will then, in accordance with custom, take leave of absence before assuming the duties of the next stage of his naval career.

While his cruiser is in American waters Prince Adalbert will retain the duties of his position, which may be that of first officer. In order to do this his shore visits must necessarily be brief. However, even a short visit from the third son of the German emperor is certain to add to the social brilliancy of the season so honored.

BOSTON SINGERS TO BE HEARD HERE.

Humperdinck's opera, "Haensel und Gretel," was given for the first time this year at the Boston Opera House Saturday afternoon, with the following cast: Haensel, Jeska Swartz; Gretel, Miss Fisher; Gertude, Mme. Claessens; Sandmaeunchen, Miss de Courcy; Taumaeunchen, Mme. d'Oilge; Peter Mr. Goritz. Of this cast Miss Swartz, contralto, and Mme. d'Oilge, soprano, will be heard at the coming operatic concert in Newport. The Boston papers spoke highly of Miss Swartz, as well as Mr. Goritz, who was borrowed from the Metropolitan Opera House for the part of Peter.

Bernardo Olshansky, who will be heard at the concert here, has sung during the month of January in "Otello," "La Boheme," "Tosca," "Madam Butterfly" and "The Girl of the Golden West."

Wilson, Harvey, Watterson, Ryan, Tillman, Swager Sherley—already, as the old women said about her undersized potatoes, almost enough for a mess.—[Boston Transcript.
